There is what is called the worldly spirit which enters with the greatest subtlety into the character of even good people; and there is what is called the time-spirit, which means the dominant way of thinking and of acting which prevails in the age in which we live; and these are powerful temptations, full of danger and in perpetual action upon us.—CARDINAL MANNING

THURSDAY, JUNE 12.

The Rule of Faith.

The Rev. D. A. Chisholm, D. D., F. P., North Sydney, has written a series of letters to The Presbyterian Witness, which we hope to see ultimately printed in book or pamphlet form. We reproduce here one that was published in the Witness of January 11, on the Rule of Faith:

You will permit me, I know, to return to the discussion with you of the Rule of Faith, which was interrupted by the necessity of settling the question of Calvin's teaching respecting the origin of evil. I shall again adopt the Lambertian method of quotations and comment as lending itself to clearness and brevity. The peculiarly evasive and sophistical reasoning in the middle paragraph of your answer to my letter of June 8th will afford material for my first observations. I quote:

"The extremely clever and adroit effort of our correspondent to show the absurdity of accepting the Word of God as a Rule of Faith has only one fault: it is too clever."

I must thank you for the compliment, but would better appreciate it, were it deserved. You should be careful not to misrepresent me. I never made any effort to show the absurdity of accepting the Word of God as a Rule of Faith. I should very soon be disciplined, if I did. The Word of God, spoken or written is my rule of Faith, is that of all Catholics. The difference between Catholics and you in this matter is, that their Rule of Faith is God's word correctly interpreted, yours is that Word, or as much of it as you accept, interpreted anyhow. Catholics assume that the interpretation they put upon God's Word should be just as free from error as the Word itself. You assume the contrary, else would you demand some means adequate to protecting that interpretation from error. Catholics assume that it would have been idle on the part of the Almighty to have given us an unerring Word, without providing at the same time some means equally unerring for preserving its purity and finding its true sense. You assume that God Almighty stopped half way in His work of instructing mankind in the supernatural order, that He gave us His infallible Word, but left its interpretation the sport of our human, unaided, fallible private judgment. Does God do things by halves? For me, if I denied that God left on earth an infallible interpreter of His Word, it would be a logical necessity to deny also that He left an infallible word at all. The infallible Word and infallible interpreter stand or fall together. Higher critics see this clearly; hence denying with you the infallibility of the interpreter, they proceed with more logic than you show to deny also the infallibility of the Word. From which come their onslaughts on the inspiration and inerrancy of the Scriptures, onslaughts which from your position you are powerless to repel.

Catholics hold that Christ established a visible institution—His Church—to preserve the purity of His Word, and to interpret it in His name and under His guidance, so that such interpretation is as free from error and has the same authority as the Word itself. You may deny that He left any such institution and thus raise an issue to be decided by reason and evidence. Into the evidence for the affirmative contention, this is not the place to enter. I shall merely say in passing that the presumption is strong in its favor. But this much I affirm and you will scarcely gainsay it, that the man who admits the existence of such an institution must, to be consistent, abide by its decisions. To such a man the authorities presiding in that institution can lawfully and properly address some such words as these, "Should you presume to set up the findings of your private judgment, or reason, or conscience,—purely human and fallible instruments of Scripture interpretation,—against our decisions on questions of faith and right living, we shall have to deal with you as Christ—the Master—and as commonsense, prescribe, i. e. we must reckon you with the heathen man and the publican. That is the penalty against those who will not hear the Church. (Math. 18: 17.) If you deny that the above-mentioned authorities can use these words, you must next deny a like privilege to God Himself. If you grant the right to use them to God, you must grant it equally to the courts He established to speak in His behalf among men. The sovereignty of God is involved in both cases.

You persist in confounding God's Word with any interpretation of it. Not every interpretation of God's Word is His saving message to men. Get that fact well set in your mind and you will avoid much unconscious blundering and beating about the bush. Only one interpretation of God's Word and that the true one is His message. That one for men is a binding rule of faith and conduct and only that one. When you get that truth firmly rooted in your mind, you will cease writing of "the Church of Christ in its purest branches," meaning by "branches" the divergent and mutually contradicting Protestant bodies. For how these contradictory systems can all be purest branches of the Church of Christ, or pure branches, or branches at all, baring that they may be rotten branches baffles logic to explain. Hence you will no longer perpetrate the absurdity, that each of these mutually destroying theories and systems calling themselves branches can put forth a body of truths equally pure, may purest truths. You will understand how that Christ could have established but one Church to expound His Word to men, and that all branches of this Church must have their being and sustenance and growth from the trunk and must be one with the trunk in nature and general external character. i. e. in belief and government, and that if any system claiming to be a branch, is separated from the trunk by inconsistency of belief or allegiance, it is a dead branch and ought to be cast aside. And you will above all promptly reject as a usurper every so-called Church—let it call itself a branch or whatsoever else it pleases,—which professes the monstrous error that two or more churches may teach contradictory doctrines and yet equally represent the mind and message of Christ.

The expressions "Word of God" and "Rule of Faith" are ambiguous and lend themselves to sophisms. In your mind "Word of God" means the written Scriptures, in mine it represents all the Master's teachings, whether they be contained in things said or done by him, whether they be spoken or written—and much has not been committed to inspired writing. (John 21: 25) — whether found in the Old or New Testament or in whatsoever manner they may have been committed to the supernatural keeping of Christ's Church. Again the expression "Rule of Faith" may refer either to the Word of God itself, or the means for securing its correct interpretation. In the former case you and I profess to have the same Rule of Faith.—The Word of God; in the latter our rules of Faith are different. Yours is the same you would use in expounding a point of law or demonstrating a proposition in geometry, i. e. your purely natural reason and judgment. Such rule may do very well for law or geometry, but it is insufficient when you come to the supernatural truths of faith. Hence my rule is this same natural reason and judgment subject to and enlightened by the public reason and divinely protected judgment of the Church.

'The Word of God is as easy to understand as the word of the Pope.'

This is tantamount to saying that law is as easy to understand as the judgments of the courts expounding it, and that it is a useless waste of time and money to appeal to the courts. Let each man interpret the law for himself and away with judges, lawyers and courts! Why do you appeal to the courts when your neighbour, interpreting the law differently from you, invades what you conceive to be your rights? Surely the rights of God's supernatural truth are as sacred as your civil rights. In theory the word of the Pope is not the law for Catholics, it is the interpretation of the law; in practice of course they coincide since the correct interpretation of the law is the law. If the Pope fails to make himself understood by one pronouncement; he can make another. To deny that he can finally make himself understood, in the sense in which he wishes to be, is to deny that mutual understanding among men is possible. The difference between the Word of God and that of the Pope is that the former is embalmed in the dead letter of a book and in the history of the Church's teaching from the beginning, whereas the word of the Pope is that of a visible living being who can explain himself every time he is misunderstood. You are unfortunate in paralleling the Word of God with the word of the Pope. That the Word of God as contained in the Scriptures does not explain itself, is more than abundantly shown by the variety of irreconcilable systems built upon it; that the word of the Pope does explain itself is demonstrated by the marvellous unity of the Catholic Church.

There are other things in your article of July 13th on 'Private Judgment' which call for comment. I shall, with your permission, return to them.

Meantime believe me to be very respectfully yours. D. A. CHISHOLM.

Boer Leaders Appeal to Burgher.

PRETORIA, June 9.—Following is the text of the translation of the last letter of the Boer leaders at Vereeniging to the burghers in the field, when peace was signed:

"Fellow-brethren and countrymen,—We feel it to be our duty to address a word of thanks and farewell to you on ending our struggle. It is our duty to inform you that peace has now been concluded in a manner and on the terms set forth in an agreement signed by two Governments and on the grounds set forth in a resolution this day adopted by the burgher assembly at Vereeniging. We heartily thank you for your heroism, for your sacrifice of so much that was dear and beloved by you; for your obedience, and for your faithful discharge of duty; all of which serves the honor and glory of the Afrikaner people. We counsel you all to acquiesce in this peace; to conduct yourselves quietly and peacefully and to obey and respect the new government.

"Further we would inform you that the head of the commission has been appointed by the representatives of the two states for the purpose of obtaining money and means to provide as far as possible for the widows and orphans, whose husbands and fathers have given their lives in the struggle for freedom and justice, and whose memory will ever remain in our history. We also here express heartfelt sympathy with those who mourn, and pray God to give them strength to bear their cross.

"We would also speak a word of praise and thanks to our women and children who have so heroically borne the most bitter sacrifices and suffering. Now there is peace, and although not the peace such as we longed for, yet let us abide where God has led. We can with clear conscience declare that for two and a-half years our people carried on the struggle in a manner almost unknown in history. Let us now grasp each other's hands for another great struggle lies before us for the spiritual and social prosperity and welfare of our people. Casting aside all feelings of bitterness, let us learn to forget and forgive so that the deep wounds caused by this war may be healed."

At the convention of Board of Trade in Toronto, on 6th inst., a resolution proclaiming it as a duty for Canada to participate in the cost of the general defence of the empire, and that an appropriation should be made in the budget for this purpose, to be expended directly by the Dominion government, was adopted on a vote of 40 to 32. Several amendments were voted down.

St. Andrew's Notes.

R. A. J. McIsaac is home from Ottawa on his vacation.

Miss Mary C. McIntosh arrived home from Boston on Monday last.

The contract for painting the exterior of our Church has been awarded to Mr. Roderick McDonald, of Antigonish.

Mr. Lauchlin McMillan, Merchant, recently moved into the residence lately purchased by him from Sheriff Chisholm.

We sincerely wish our friend every happiness in his new home.

Our members are giving much of their attention at present to our highways and in the right way too.

The road between South River bridge and St. Andrews has already been greatly improved.

The road-machine is doing excellent work. It is operated by Dan R. Chisholm, of Brown River, than whom no man can be easily found fitter for the work.

The W. U. Telegraph line between Antigonish and Gaysboro is at present undergoing extensive repairs.

Nearly all the old poles are being replaced. As they are all being braced, this line when completed will be very substantial.

At this work there is a gang of 25 engaged. The foreman is a very young man and is highly spoken of by all, particularly by the men under him.

He is Archibald Fraser, son of Angus Fraser, formerly of Lower South River, but at present residing at Port Hastings, C. B.

The Hon. Angus McGillivray was at St. Andrews on Tuesday evening. He was on a tour of road inspection and expressed himself as being satisfied with the work done here.

South Africa.

In a letter from Pretoria, dated May 18, the correspondent of the London Mail says that the previous Thursday sixty arrests were made there as the result of the discovery of an extensive plot to blow up the government buildings and Lord Kitchener's residence and to spike the guns in the artillery barracks.

The parties concerned in this plot, according to the correspondent, were lawyers, chemists and Boer and Dutch prisoners on parole.

The only additional clause to the peace terms to those already published is the condition giving the Boers loans of money for three years without interest and for a longer period at 3 per cent per annum.

The Boers are coming in and accepting the terms, and appear from reports to hand to be accepting the situation with good grace.

The correspondent of the Times at Bloemfontein says the surrenders in that colony are proceeding satisfactorily.

One of the first signs of the era of peace is the removal of barbed wire fences between the blockhouses, which is going on everywhere.

These rolls of wire will doubtless be given at a valuation to the Boers to repair their farm fences.

The correspondent hopes blockhouses, especially stone ones, will not be destroyed, as they are quite a feature of the landscape, like the peel towers of Scotland and Martello towers on the south coast of England, and are historical monuments worth preserving.

DEATHS.

Obituary and marriage notices have been gradually encroaching on our space. The attention of our publishing company being called to the matter at the annual meeting, it was decided to limit the space for these notices, except where the event appears to be of general interest. The best way to mark this limit seems to be to adopt the plan employed by many other papers:

Notices of deaths will be published free of charge when not exceeding 40 words. For every word over 40, 2 cents will be charged, payment in advance.

On Sunday, the 1st June, at East Tracadie, SIMON BOURDON, blacksmith, in the fifty-ninth year of his age. Deceased had been in delicate health for some time, but not until about six weeks ago was it realized that there was real danger. Every attendance and care that medical skill and good nursing could provide were given him, but death triumphed. As he had lived so he died, resigned to the will of His Maker and fortified by the last sacred rites that our Holy Mother the Church offers to her dying children. He leaves a sorrowing wife and a family of five to mourn their irreparable loss.

Keeping Company.

I want to talk to you this month about a very important subject; I hope you will be reasonably attentive. I want to talk about company keeping; and to whom could I mean to talk except to that young lady who has a beau?

I do not think there is the slightest harm in a young lady having a beau. I am sure you will thank me for the generosity of my opinion; but by a young lady I do not mean a school girl. I think it is very wrong for a school girl even to think of such things. And just here, in passing, a word to the parents of any young girl whose character is not properly formed will not be out of place.

Again, company keeping without any prospects for the future is a sure forerunner of disaster. Poverty, where there is thrift, ought not to be a hindrance, for many who begin life in very modest circumstances are to-day among our best people; nor are they, nor need they be a bit ashamed of their humble beginning.

The third point to take into consideration in this matter of keeping company is this: Keep a watch over it. I don't mean that you are to watch him so closely that nobody will ever see him. I mean the opposite. Don't be afraid to entertain him before your parents or decent people.

You can readily ascertain from the above lines what is my idea of a beau. He is a young man who means business. He calls upon a young lady to marry her in a reasonable time, say within two years. He does not make her home a place of convenience, where he simply loafs and selfishly appropriates the young lady to the exclusion of some other young man who would marry her if he could.

tentions of this kind, which deservedly place her in a false light before the community. No young man has a particle of right to do this thing, because he is ruining the young girl's chances of matrimony. A prudent mother will soon discover, and she has a perfect right to enquire, about a young man's intentions in this matter, and if she learns, after a reasonable time, that marriage is not the purpose, she is doing a great injustice to her daughter if she does not politely inform the young gentleman to discontinue his visits.

Again, company keeping without any prospects for the future is a sure forerunner of disaster. Poverty, where there is thrift, ought not to be a hindrance, for many who begin life in very modest circumstances are to-day among our best people; nor are they, nor need they be a bit ashamed of their humble beginning.

A Story of Nordica.

Lillian Norton (Nordica) was born and reared in Farmington, Me. She studied in Boston, sang in many of the Catholic church choirs (Mme Nordica is a devout Catholic), and finally appeared as a concert singer in New York with Gilmore's band.

SYMINGTON'S EDINBURGH COFFEE ESSENCE

makes delicious coffee in a moment. No trouble, no waste. In small and large bottles, from all Grocers. GUARANTEED PURE.

Her personification of Verdi's masterpiece "Aida," has been unsurpassed in the world of music. Her position in the operatic world has been established now for years, and she reigns with queenly grace as the only American prima donna.

One of Mme. Nordica's favorite concert numbers is the great dramatic aria from Ekel's Hungarian opera, "Lasles," in which the climax depicts the grief of a mother upon the loss of her child. One day while driving in the country she was startled by a wail of anguish from a nearby cottage. Jumping from her carriage, she ran to the door, and found a young mother, whose child had just died in her arms, giving way to the first passion of her woe.

Dr. Brindle.

King Edward has given much satisfaction to his Roman Catholic subjects by asking Dr. Brindle, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Nottingham, to consecrate the colors which he, the King, is going to present to the newly formed regiment of Irish guards on May 30.

Dr. Brindle is a popular prelate not alone with the people of his church but likewise with the army and the English public at large. For twenty-five years his name was borne on the British army lists as one of its chaplains, and during the various wars in Egypt and in the Soudan he behaved with so much courage that on the recommendation of Lord Kitchener the late Queen Victoria conferred the distinguished service order upon him, while the Kehedive—that is to say, a Mohammedan sovereign—made him a Knight Commander of the Medjidieh.

Seedtime and Harvest.

A little seed lay in the ground, with many others near it. God sent heat to invite the seed to put forth its first tender leaflets. "No," said the seed, "it is dark and disagreeable here. I have heard that I belong to a different, fairer land. I am not of this earth and I will put forth my leaflets when I get above.

Then God sent moisture to try and persuade the seed. "No," said the seed, "it would be foolish to waste my leaflets on this dark, oppressive place, where my stay is so brief. I am not of the soil, but of the world above."

A despatch to the Paris Petit Journal from Brussels says that the engineer who for fourteen years has been in charge of the royal train suddenly became insane shortly before the departure of King Leopold for Ostend from the Northern Railroad station.

Local Items.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS crowded out. PING-PONG SETS from seventy cents up at C. J. McDonald's book-store. FOUND - A fancy shirt, owner can have same by applying at the CASKET OFFICE. Mr. J. E. Brown, eyesight specialist of Toronto, will be at Copeland's drug store on Saturday, June 14. RALPH KIRK, the little lad who fractured his leg a few weeks ago, suffered a renewal of the fracture on Monday. BISHOP MACDONALD BETTER - A telegram received on Saturday brought the welcome tidings that his Lordship the Bishop of Harbor Grace, Nfld., is safely over the crisis of his illness. THE REV. DR. CHISHOLM of North Sydney has consented to a request from the local Branch of the League of the Cross to lecture on temperance in Antigonish. The lecture will be delivered at McDonald's Hall, on Friday evening, July 4th. Needless to remark that the subject will on this occasion receive original, scholarly and judicious treatment. ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION - The Rev. W. B. MacDonald, P. P., Lourdes, was presented by his parishioners with an address and a purse of gold on the occasion of the twenty-sixth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. It has been a rule with us since some years not to publish such addresses and this must be our excuse for not inserting the exquisitely worded one that lies before us. THE TEMPERANCE LECTURE in Antigonish last Thursday evening by Mr. J. R. Geldert was listened to with marked attention by a large audience. The lecturer dwelt at length on his personal experience over a long period of years while addicted to the habit of strong drink, and therefrom forcefully pictured to the audience the miseries and losses suffered by the victims of intoxicants. At the close of the lecture he was tendered a vote of thanks. Mr. D. G. Whidden was chairman. CORPUS CHRISTI PROCESSION IN ARCHT. - The Richmond Record of Friday last says: "On Sunday the Acadians of this Island celebrated Corpus Christi, an old French custom, in an enthusiastic manner by the firing of cannon and the usual ceremonial rites." It was not the Acadians only but all the Catholics that took part in the Corpus Christi celebration, nor is this an old French but rather an old Catholic custom. The same paper states that the tricolor of France was greatly in evidence. We have the very best authority for saying that there were but two French flags among the five hundred English and American banners which served to decorate the road of the procession on that day. IS NOT ATLANTIC STANDARD TIME. - The CASKET was wrong last week in designating the new time about to be adopted Atlantic. It is not Atlantic standard at all: there is no such time mentioned in any of the authoritative almanacs. Intercolonial standard is the proper term, and the British Nautical Almanac, compiled by the Astronomer Royal at Greenwich, Eng., quotes the so-called 'Atlantic' time as Intercolonial standard, adhering to the original arrangement of some years ago, when Intercolonial, Central and Eastern standards were decided upon. Atlantic is wrong; Intercolonial is correct. The Ottawa authorities have acknowledged their mistake, and possibly formal corrections will be made all along the line. FATAL ACCIDENT. - A very distressing fatal accident occurred at Mulgrave on Saturday by which Mr. John Clancy, a highly esteemed resident, lost his life. Mr. Clancy, who was I. C. R. car inspector at Mulgrave, was standing on a flat car and in some way slipped off the footboard while the car was in motion. In falling he grasped the iron rod supporting the footboard but was unable to save himself, and the wheels passed over his legs, cutting off one at the thigh and horribly mauling the other. He was placed in a special train, which made remarkably quick time to New Glasgow, and taken to the Aberdeen Hospital, where he died about six o'clock. At Antigonish Fr. Macdonald boarded the train and administered to him the last rites of the church. Deceased was widely known and respected, and his sad death is regretted by all. May he rest in peace! WEDDING CEREMONY. - The marriage of Miss Cassie McLean of Antigonish and Dr. T. M. Sullivan of Glace Bay took place yesterday morning at St. Ninian's Cathedral, Rev. Dr. Thompson, Rector of the College, officiating. Both the happy principals are extremely popular in Antigonish, where the groom attended College for a number of years, and a large crowd gathered to witness the ceremony. The bride entered the Church attended by her brother, who gave her away, and was supported during the solemnization of the nuptials by Miss Ella Cook of Sydney and the groom by Dr. O'Shaughnessy of Halifax. As the wedding party was leaving the Church the organist executed a wedding march. The bride is highly esteemed in this her native Town, and during her many years as a book-keeper in the leading stores here was always courteous and reliable, and as a member of St. Ninian's Choir was a general favorite. The happy couple left yesterday for Glace Bay, attended by the good wishes of all for their future prosperity. Numerous valuable presents were received by the bride. THE CLOSING EXERCISES in connection with the Collegiate school of St. John the Baptist took place in the College Hall on Tuesday, June 6th, at 7.48 p. m. The Hall was crowded with the citizens of the town who thus showed their interest in the work done in the Collegiate school. After the reading of the results, and a very excellent solo from Mr. Flynn, the prizes were distributed and diplomas conferred. The following, having completed the course and passed the examinations, were awarded graduation diplomas: R. L. McDonald, A. G. Hamilton, D. McIsaac, B. Stehlin, D. J. McDonald, F. Fitzgerald, J. Joyce, R. J. Chisholm, Tom C. Fraser, W. Delaney, E. Delaney, A. McIntyre. A very interesting feature of the occasion was the performance at the piano of Mr. H. H. McDonald. The appreciation of his playing by the audience was shown by the many encores he received. Mr. McDonald more than fulfilled the expectation of those who asked him to play and they take the opportunity of heartily congratulating him on the great success he has achieved in the past and are confident that a still larger measure is in store for him for the future. After a very laughable farce was presented by the St. E. X. Dramatic Society, the exercises closed with God Save the King. THE EXCURSION TRAIN bringing the C. M. B. A. members from Cape Breton to the College Closing Exercises arrived here about four p. m. The excursionists numbered between three and four hundred. Nature was particularly generous in her welcome to the visitors. Added to our beautiful scenery covered with abundant vegetation, always usual here in leafy June, was a bright and warm evening, in sharp contrast to the cold and heavy rain prevailing when they left home. They were met at the Station by the local Band, the Antigonish C. M. B. A. members and a large concourse of citizens who escorted them to McDonald's Hall, where where arrangements already made for lodging them were put rapidly into execution, and all were assigned to comfortable quarters. During the evening they attended the Exercises at the College, and the ceremony at the Cathedral. To-day, also fine, there are a number of events for their entertainment, and we believe the visitors will return home well pleased with their visit. They are a most orderly, respectable lot of people, and the citizens of Antigonish enjoyed their presence. The C. M. B. A. Band of Sydney Mines, a young organization, accompanied the visitors, and their several selections were well rendered, showing the training of Bandmaster Henderson, formerly of this Town, is being expended on fruitful material. The Rev. Harry Dorsey, a negro, will be ordained a Catholic priest by Cardinal Gibbons in Baltimore on June 21. He will be the second colored man to enter the Roman Catholic priesthood in America. The Rev. C. R. Uncles was the first. He was ordained in 1891. On Thursday, 26th inst., Coronation Day, the stores of the Town will be closed.
